NASA's LONGEST RUNNING ADMINISTRATOR,
THE HONORABLE DANIEL S. GOLDIN, JOINS BOARD OF ADVISORS OF MYMEDICALRECORDS.COM, LAUNCH PAD FOR TRENDSETTING CONCEPT IN MEDICAL RECORDS KEEPING

(Los Angeles, Calif., Feb., 28, 2006) – The Honorable Daniel S. Goldin, who successfully presided over NASA longer than anyone else in history, has joined the distinguished Board of Advisors of MyMedicalRecords.com, the Los Angeles-based company that has created the nation's first true online safe-deposit box for storing personal health records and other vital documents.

"Dan's aggressive leadership allowed him to improve NASA's scientific innovation and safety indicators while reducing the agency's expenditures by $40 billion during his tenure," said Robert H. Lorsch, chairman and chief executive officer of MyMedicalRecords.com.

"We are proud to have him on our Board of Advisors where he will contribute to the company's expansion as a leading provider of online personal health records and other vital documents that is the most feature-rich product of its kind."

Goldin holds the unique distinction of being the longest-serving administrator in NASA's history, having led the agency from 1992-2001 under Presidents George W. Bush, William Jefferson Clinton and George H. W. Bush.

His scientific initiatives include the Origins Program, a study on how the solar system formed, how life on Earth began and whether life exists elsewhere in the universe.

Some of NASA's achievements under Goldin's leadership include the first repairs while in orbit to the Hubble Space Telescope and the development of the Spitzer Infrared Telescope.

Prior to NASA, Goldin was vice president and general manager of the Space and Technology Group of TRW, where he spent 25 years working towards innovations in military, civil and commercial technology.

He recently founded the Intellisis Companies, a provider of high tech consulting and developer of biologically-inspired technologies.

In addition, Goldin is a Distinguished Fellow at the Council on Competitiveness and is also a member of the National Academy of Engineering and a Fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.
